

TANZANIA COMMISSION FOR UNIVERSITIES

PROFILE

INTRODUCTION

A system of higher education was first introduced in Tanzania in 1961 with the establishment of the University College Dar es Salaam as an affiliate of the University of London. In 1963, the University of East Africa was established as a regional university for three East African countries: Tanzania, Uganda, and Kenya, with the University College Dar es Salaam, Makerere University College in Uganda, and Nairobi University College in Kenya as its constituent colleges. In 1970, the University College Dar es Salaam was transformed into the present-day University of Dar es Salaam (UDSM) following the decision by the three East African countries to establish national universities in each country, leading to the dissolution of the University of East Africa.

Beginning in the late 1980s and continuing through the mid-1990s, Tanzania liberalised its political and socio-economic policies. These reforms led to an increased demand for social services, including higher education. Since then, higher education has experienced exponential growth, including the establishment of private universities. However, the proliferation of higher education institutions was seen as a potential threat to both the quality of the institutions being established and the education provided. In response, the government deemed it necessary to establish a University Regulatory Framework to ensure that this rapid expansion did not compromise the quality of education. Consequently, in 1995, the Higher Education Accreditation Council was established by the Education Act, Cap. 523 of 1995, to regulate the establishment and accreditation of private university institutions in the country.

The fact that HEAC's mandates were limited to private universities was considered unfavourable for the promotion of a viable public-private partnership in higher education, as stipulated in the National Higher Education Policy of 1999. Additionally, the need for a harmonised higher education system in the country, since quality issues apply to both public and private universities, led to the establishment of the Tanzania Commission for Universities (TCU) in 2005 through the enactment of the Universities Act, Cap. 346 of the Laws of Tanzania. TCU is mandated to regulate the establishment, registration, and quality assurance of both public and private university institutions in Tanzania.

MANDATES AND CORE FUNCTIONS

The mandates and core functions of TCU are outlined in Section 5(1) of the Universities Act, Cap. 346 of the Laws of Tanzania. The functions are categorised into three main areas: regulatory, advisory, and supportive.

1) Regulatory Function:

- i) Registration and accreditation of universities to operate in Tanzania;
- ii) Periodic evaluation of universities, their systems and programmes;
- iii) Validation and accreditation of programmes to ensure their credibility; and
- iv) Recognition of university qualifications attained from local and foreign institutions for use in Tanzania.

2) Advisory Function:

Advices the government and general public on:

- i) Higher education issues within and outside Tanzania;
- ii) International issues pertaining to higher education; and
- iii) Programme and policy formulation and also best practices.

3) Supportive Function:

- i) Ensuring the orderly conduct of university operations by enforcing adherence to established standards and benchmarks;
- ii) Coordinate admission of students; and
- iii) Coordinate training and sensitisation in key areas such as:
 - a) Quality assurance;
 - b) University leadership and management;
 - c) Fund raising and resource mobilisation;
 - d) Entrepreneurship skills; and
 - e) Gender mainstreaming.

LEGAL AND POLICY FRAMEWOK

i) Legal Framework:

There are two major legal instruments that grants the Commission legal mandate and powers to execute its functions.

- a) The Universities Act, Cap. 346 of the Laws of Tanzania; and
- b) The Universities (General) Regulations, G.N. 226 of 2013.

ii) Policy Framework:

- a) Major policy directives on higher education are informed by the Education and Training Policy 2014 (2023 Edition); and
- b) Policy guidelines issued to universities and the general public by the Commission from time to time on all matters related to the provision of higher education in Tanzania.

NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENTS

Over the years, TCU has achieved notable milestones that have contributed to the development of the higher education sub-sector in the country. These achievements include:

- i) Advancement of quality assurance practices in university institutions in Tanzania.
- ii) Increased access to university education through the growth in the number of university institutions, from 1 in 1961 to 49 to date.

TCU extends its profound gratitude to stakeholders and development partners for their incredible cooperation and support. We acknowledge and greatly value your invaluable contributions to TCU's success. We remain grateful for your patience during times of unforeseen challenges. TCU is committed to fostering continued collaboration in the coming years.

FUTURE OUTLOOK

TCU's agenda is to continue supporting the systematic growth and excellence of university education in Tanzania by advocating for improvements and addressing the challenges that adversely affect university education. Our aim is to enhance accessible, equitable, harmonised, and quality university education systems that produce a competitive human resource base for national development. However, the goal of promoting accessible, equitable, harmonised, and quality university education systems that produce nationally and globally competitive outputs should also be the responsibility of every university in the country.
